

This regards FCC Number Portability regulations impact on Telecom Profitability and Unemployment. It seems that the FCC and the U.S. Legislature is determined to make it unprofitable for telecom companies to survive and/or force them to increase unemployment. Following is an article on the impact of "churn" and the upcoming price wars due to number portability.

http://biz.yahoo.com/rb/031116/telecoms_mobile_prices_1.html

Didn't the government learn anything after the disaster of the Telecommunications Act in the late 90's? Hundreds of millions of investment dollars were lost, and just as these companies have learned to survive, even with the evil Worldcom emerging from bankruptcy debtfree, you hit them again!! Who said phone service was supposed to be free? Just nationalize the communications industry, and let the FCC operate it, then at least investors can stop living under the false illusion that these are worth investments!